Mumbai Cricket Association turns to AI for coaching

MCA has tied up with Level Up Sportslytics. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

Devendra Pandey
Mumbai, November 7

THE Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) has decided to introduce Artificial Intelligence (AI) in its coaching methods. The MCA has tied up with Level Up Sportslytics, a Singapore-based AI company, which will work with its coaches at the Sharad Pawar Indoor Cricket Academy in BKC. The MCA is the first association to use AI in its coaching.

"We need to change as per the time. Technology has played an important role behind the scene and it's showing us what it can do to reach any goal. We are trying to adopt AI in our daily nets session and we will see how it benefits our coaches and players to excel. It's just a pilot project now. We will be taking feedback from coaches and players on how it has helped them," MCA president Ajinkya Naik said.

Each pitch will have four cameras installed at various angles, capturing every frame of a batsman. Coaches can do the same for bowlers.

If a coach needs to analyse a player's back-foot shot, he will type the name in the app provided by the AI company and get complete data on the individual. The company made a detailed presentation to the MCA in August and ran a pilot project too.

"Across India and around the world, everyone in cricket is interested in AI. Far fewer are willing to put their weight behind a technology and say: we will implement it, and we will take our coaching to the next level," said Sitanshu Dash, founder and CEO of Level Up Sportslytics.

HAD RS 10 LAKH BOUNTY

Maoist from Jharkhand held in Thane by ATS

Manish Kumar Pathak
Mumbai, November 7

A SENIOR Maoist carrying a bounty of Rs 10 lakh on his head allegedly left the forests of Jharkhand and took up odd jobs in Thane, including working as a caretaker of five to six cows at a bungalow in Dombivli. The Maharashtra Anti-Terrorism Squad (ATS) arrested the 45-year-old from Thakurli near Dombivli.

The accused has been identified as Sanjay Saroju Yadav, also known as Sanjay Godray and Budharam. He is wanted in seven cases in Jharkhand, including murder, extortion and an exchange of fire with police personnel.

During interrogation, the ATS learnt that Yadav had fled from the forests in the Chhatarpur area of Jharkhand more than a month ago. After reaching Thane with the help of his Naxalite friend, he initially came in contact with a real estate contractor, who employed him for loading and unloading work.

Later, he got in touch with another person who is in the real estate business, who lives in a bungalow in the Thakurli area of Dombivli. Around a week ago, Yadav approached the businessman seeking employment. The latter hired him to look after his five to six cows, which he would take out for grazing. The businessman was unaware of Yadav's background, a police officer said.

Yadav is a resident of Devgaon village in Jharkhand's Palamu district. He is allegedly a Zonal Committee Member of a banned Naxalite organisation and joined the outfit in 2014, the officer added.

During questioning, Yadav reportedly told the police that a land dispute had prompted him to join the Naxalite organisation in 2014. He is married and has three children — a 23-year-old married daughter and two sons aged 22 and 20. His father is a farmer. Yadav allegedly had not returned home since joining the organisation in 2014 and was involved in several criminal cases, including murder, attempt to murder and exchanges of fire with police personnel, the officer said.

The ATS received specific intelligence that Yadav, against whom the Jharkhand Police had announced a reward of Rs 10 lakh, was hiding in Thakurli. Acting on the information, the Thane unit of the Maharashtra ATS verified the inputs and apprehended him. He was brought to the ATS unit in Thane and handed over to the Jharkhand Police, which took his custody on transit remand for further investigation and legal proceedings, the officer said. Meanwhile, investigating agencies are examining his digital devices and other evidence to ascertain his activities and the purpose of his stay in Maharashtra.

Police: Man held with over 20,000 child abuse images

Manish Kumar Pathak
Mumbai, November 7

MAHARASHTRA CYBER police has arrested a 49-year-old man from Malad after allegedly finding more than 20,000 photographs and videos containing Child Sexual Exploitative and Abuse Material (CSEAM) on his cellphone.

The accused, Saiffudin Jamir Uddin Malik, was arrested following intelligence-based surveillance and technical analysis by cyber units monitoring online platforms for child sexual exploitation.

The cyber police had received information that the accused was allegedly downloading and storing child sexual abuse material on his electronic device. A technical investigation was launched following which Malik was identified. The FIR was registered at the Nodal Cyber police station under relevant sections of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, and IT Act. During inspection of his cellphone, police allegedly found over 20,000 photographs and videos containing CSEAM.

Police are probing the source of the material, how it was downloaded and stored, and whether it was shared or circulated online. Police are also trying to find out if more people are involved.

Inside Mumbai's latest fourteen-seater tasting-menu-only restaurant, Fitour

Heena Khandelwal
Mumbai, November 7

Located in the basement of House of Akina, Fitour is designed like a speakeasy. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

CHEF ASHWIN Singh calls his first menu a poem, and would rather you didn't count its verses. At Fitour, the 14-seater tasting-menu-only restaurant that has recently opened in Bandra, the debut menu, Nostalgia, comprises 18 courses. Like most tasting-menu-only restaurants, there is no menu card to pore over. The courses arrive one by one, with the chef and his team guiding guests through.

All 14 guests begin together, so everyone has the same experience. "You will not know what is coming to your table. Food will come, we will tell you how to eat it, and once you are done eating, we will tell you what you ate," Singh tells them before the first course. His reasoning is simple: food should be enjoyed at the right temperature. The experience unfolds in the basement of House of Akina, designed almost like a speakeasy, with music and lighting changing across five acts. Guests arrive at 7.15 pm, and service begins around 7.30 pm. Early courses come with brighter lights and playful music. By the barbecue course, the lights dim and the music turns intense. In the final courses, the room is bathed in softer light, with romantic tunes like Wildflower, Yellow and 1000 years.

AROUND town

The menu travels across India, with dishes rooted in memories. It opens with a pani puri whose sphere is coated in white chocolate and mint chutney, while the water is made with bitter gourd and amla.

The karela is cured in alum for nearly two weeks to remove its bitterness. The inspiration is morning walks with his grandfather, who insisted he drink karela juice. A Jim Jam-like cookie is a reimagining of Bihari litti chokha, a whole-wheat and sattu cookie filled with aubergine chokha.

In the sol kadhi, kokum is replaced with fermented tomato water and served with cured barramundi. Another course features buransh-glazed pork in three layers, with a papad made from leftover rice. The mains take inspiration from the Great Indian Thali: dry-aged duck (king oyster and morel mushrooms for vegetarians) with beetroot and green ketchups, a chaas-inspired foam and a butter-garlic naan reworked as laminated dough with kalonji in place of garlic.

One of the most personal courses is 'Shirvalya and Mango Mahua Rasam', which traces Singh's journey through the cities he has lived in: his mother's raw-mango aamras from Bihar, a rasam masala from Bengaluru, a mahua and raw-mango ferment from Kolkata and sunchoke from Bangkok. It ends with shirvalya, a Maharashtrian dessert noodle, reimagined as a savoury course. Desserts include a mogra that mimics the flower in appearance.

Vegetarian cooking, too, gets equal attention. Singh comes from a pure-vegetarian family. Apart from a jackfruit preparation that could have worked better, the vegetarian courses hold their own. The food can be paired with technique-forward cocktail. There's a smooth vodka-based cocktail with notes of apple and herbs, while another, tequila-based, brings together fresh fruit, pink dragon fruit, zucchini and a touch of curry powder.

The drinks are rounded off by a thoughtfully curated wine selection.

PRICES MAY RISE ACROSS CATEGORIES SOON

Big-ticket slump dims festive e-comm sales

ANEES HUSSAIN
Bengaluru, November 7

ONLINE FESTIVE SALES have fallen short of even the industry's muted expectations, which were already tempered by rising input costs that pushed up prices across categories and left little room for discounts. Gross merchandise value (GMV) in the run-up to Diwali grew 13–15% year-on-year (y-o-y), against the 20-25% growth industry analysts and executives had expected. While festive shoppers shifted their spending to lower-priced categories such as home decor, fashion, footwear, beauty and personal care, and grocery, growth in these could not make up for the value lost to the slowdown in smartphones, laptops and large appliances, multiple industry analysts and executives FE spoke to said.

Last year's festive GMV had grown 25% over the 2024 season to ₹1.2 lakh crore, helped by GST rate cuts that took effect a day before the sales opened in September 2025 and set off a rush of big-ticket buying. That followed growth of 16% in 2023 and 19% in 2024. This year marks the first slowdown in growth in three years and the slowest festive growth in at least five years, according to industry estimates.

The biggest drag on sales value came from smartphones, estimated to account for 24-25% of GMV in the run-up to this Diwali, against about 30% expected before the season began and 35.2% of last year's festive GMV. Higher prices driven by the memory crisis kept many shoppers away from new phones, and even EMI schemes and bank offers failed to pull them back, analysts said. "We thought EMIs, or bank offers would push sales, but nothing clicked there. Smartphones and laptops actually did worse than what we expected, that's where the biggest drop is," said Satish Meena, founder of Datum Intelligence. Apple's flagship launch also saw it skipping the base iPhone version, leaving no affordable entry option for most aspirants. Older iPhone models, which typically become cheaper after a launch, did not get cheaper either, Meena said.

Much of this year's growth came from higher order volumes rather than purchases of higher-value products. Orders rose at least 10-15% over the same period last year, according to industry estimates, as shoppers spread their spending across lower-priced categories like home decor, fashion, footwear, beauty and personal care, and grocery.

These categories contribute far less to GMV per order. Fashion orders, for instance, had an average selling price of ₹1,643 between September 1 and October 31, with half priced below ₹1,000, according to data from Reliance-owned commerce platform Fynd.
