SCHOOLGIRL RAPE
Life Term For Attacker

A 14-year-old man was on Friday sentenced to life term for raping and killing a 12-year-old girl, with the Punjab and Haryana High Court imposing a fine of Rs.1,00,000 on Kuldeep Gajjar Tuli.

The boy, a native of the nearby town of Ambala, had allegedly picked up the schoolgirl near her village and driven her to a lonely spot on May 2, 2009, after which he raped and killed her.

An FIR was registered against the accused and he was later arrested on March 18, 2009.

The boy had pleaded not guilty in the case.

He was convicted by a Sessions Judge and sentenced to life term on May 26, 2009.

The high court in its order on Friday sentenced the juvenile.

The case had been transferred to the high court from the lower court.

The girl's father, who had filed the petition, welcomed the order.

SUKHVEER SINGH, Additional Advocate General, appearing for the prosecution, said the accused is guilty and that the conviction and sentence are appropriate.

Children and Women Law Officer Advocate Shalini Kaur, appearing for the state, also supported the order.

The case is being heard by a single judge.
