RATING RATIONALE

“The upgrade of Tata Steel’s CFR reflects the sustained improvement in the company’s credit profile, stemming principally from strong operating efficiencies and vertical integration, as well as stable demand and price conditions in its major market,” says Kaustubh Chaubal, a Moody’s Vice President and Senior Credit Officer.

Tata Steel’s CFR is supported by its significant, diversified and growing operating base and its globally cost competitive steel operations in India, with the latter being a function of its ownership of key raw materials.

These factors, alongside favorable industry dynamics in its key operating market in India have translated into the company’s sustained track record of improving credit metrics. Tata Steel’s leverage, as measured by adjusted debt/EBITDA, is on an improving trajectory and will fall below 3.5x by March 2020 from 4.1x at March 2018 and 3.9x at March 2019. EBIT/interest coverage will remain above 3.0x.

Tata Steel’s key market is still India, which accounts for 57% of its global steel volumes sold, 54% of consolidated revenues, and 85% of consolidated EBITDA; a result of the strong operating environment and the company’s backward integration into producing its key own raw materials of iron ore and coking coal. During the first nine months of the fiscal year ending 31 March 2019, Tata Steel’s Indian operations generated an EBITDA/ton of INR17,270 ($240); more than three times the profitability of its European operations.

Consequently, strong growth prospects in India augur well for Tata Steel. And, the successful integration of Bhushan Steel Ltd.’s (Bhushan) steel assets in 2018 and the proposed acquisition of the steel business of Usha Martin have further cemented Tata Steel’s business profile.

Moody's expects India's steel consumption to grow at 5.5%-6.0% annually over the next one-two years, supported by the country's strong domestic demand, in turn propelled by the government of India’s (Baa2 stable) spending on infrastructure projects and good prospects in the automotive industry. At the same time, consolidation in India’s steel sector and limited new capacity commissioning over the 18-24 months will keep industry utilization levels in check and help pricing discipline.

Tata Steel’s CFR continues to incorporate a one-notch uplift, reflecting Moody’s expectation of timely, ongoing and extraordinary support from its parent, Tata Sons Ltd.
Press Release

The stable outlook reflects Moody’s expectation that Tata Steel’s strong operating performance will translate into a sustained improvement in credit metrics.

The stable outlook also incorporates Moody’s expectation that Tata Steel will remain selective in its acquisitions, funding them with a prudent mix of debt and equity and allowing only a temporary spike in adjusted debt/EBITDA leverage.

Moody’s could upgrade the CFR if the company maintains adjusted debt/EBITDA below 3.75x and EBIT/interest coverage in excess of 3.0x, both on a sustained basis.

A downgrade of the rating is unlikely in the near term, given today’s rating action. Nevertheless, a sharp shift in industry conditions that triggers declining sales volumes and dents pricing and profitability would pressure the rating. Specific metrics indicative of downward rating pressure include adjusted debt/EBITDA in excess of 4.5x or EBIT/interest coverage below 2.75x.

Negative rating pressure could also build if the company undertakes any large debt financed acquisition without an immediate and meaningful counterbalancing effect on earnings resulting in a sustained increase in leverage. Execution risks pertaining to a timely and seamless integration of the acquired businesses could also pressure the rating.

The principal methodology used in this rating was Steel Industry published in September 2017. Please see the Rating Methodologies page on www.moodys.com for a copy of this methodology.
